```
2 根据语境确定逻辑主语
                                           非谓语动词的成分识别:严格步骤
                                                                                         3 根据含义和句式流程图确定所作句子成分,
                                                                                             最好优先确定主干部分的句子成分。
                                                                                          4 以上练习全部是为了各位在口语和写作
                                                                                            方面全面的掌控和反应速度。
                                                                  1.He is ready to lead and our force, our Chitauri, will follow.
                                                                  主系表
                                                                              目的状语/宾语
                                                                 所谓的固定搭配【be ready to do sth.准备好做某事】
                                                                 He is happy to accept your gift.
                                                                 It is important to send this message to the government.
                                                                 形系 表 主(真)
                                                                 我们的盟友已做好引领的准备我们的军队 我们的齐塔瑞的大军 将紧随其后
                                                                 2. And the humans, what can they do but burn?
                                                                 they can do what but burn. 【but 此处表除了……】
                                                                  主 谓 宾1
                                                                                  宾2
                                                                 仿写: I can do nothing but regret.
                                                                 而人类除了坐以待毙之外别无选择
                                                                 3.NASA didn't authorise Selving to go to test phase.
                                                                  主 谓 宾
                                                                 授权某人做某事。
                                                                 NASA(美国国家航空航天局)没授权希尔维格进入测试阶段
                                                                 4. We should tell them to go back to sleep?
                                                                            非谓 宾 宾补【短语成分解析】
                                                                                    非谓 宾【短语成分解析】
                                                                 难道我们要告诉他们回去睡觉吗?
                                                                 5. I need you to make sure the Phase 2 prototypes are shipped out.
                                                                   主谓宾
                                                                             非谓
                                                                                                 宾语从句【短语成分即系】
                                                                                                             谓(被动)【短语成分解析】
                                                                 我需要你确保第二阶段原型机被运送出去
                                                                 6. Is that supposed to be funny?
                                                                   系 主 表 宾
                                                                 我应该觉得好笑吗?
                                                                   所谓固定搭配【be supposed to do sth.本应该做某事】
                                                                 7. This doesn't have to get any messier.
                                                                                    宾
                                                                                 非谓(系)表
                                                                 没必要把事情弄得更混乱吧
                                                                 所谓固定搭配【have to do sth.不得不做某事】
                                                                                                                                    例句: I am going to travel around the world where I have never gone.
                                                                 8. Are you planning to step on us?
                                                                                                                                         主谓
                                                                   助主谓
                                                                                                                                                                  地状【around 介宾】
                                                                                                                                                  非谓
                                                                                  非谓 宾【step on 视为谓语动词整体】
                                                                                                                                                                 宾 定语从句
                                                                                                                                                         介
                                                                                                                                                                      地状 主 时状 谓
                                                                                  非谓 地状【on + 名词/代词=介宾短语】
                                                                 所谓固定搭配【be planning to do sth.计划去做某事】
                                                                 你是打算踩死我们吗?
                                                                 be going to do sth.
                                                                 例句: I am going to travel around the world where I have never gone.
                                                                 9. I want every living soul not working
                                                                 主谓 定 定 宾 定
                                                                  除搜救人员之外我需要所有人都去找那个手提箱
                                                                 10. This is not how I wanted this evening to go. 【宾补】
                                                                 11. I know how you wanted this evening to go. 【宾补】
                                                                 12 The famous Black Widow and she turns out to be simply another pretty face. 【宾】
                                                                 13.Tell Lermentov we don't need him to move the tanks. 【宾补】
English Grammar Lesson31
                                                                 14.We need you to come in. 【宾补】
                                                                 15.Let me put you on hold. 【宾补】
                                           电影例句
                                                                 16.But first,we need you to talk to the big guy. 【宾补】
                                                                 17.I don't think you want to break that streak. 【宾】
                                                                 18.Stop lying to me!【宾】
                                                                 19.I just wanted to see what you'd do. 【宾】
                                                                 20.Then you should be out,celebrating,seeing the world. 【宾, 状】
                                                                 21.There's a lot we'll have to bring you up to speed on if you're in. 【宾】
                                                                 22.There's a debriefing packer waiting for you back at your apartment. 【定】
                                                                  在你的公寓里有一分关于这次任务的资料
                                                                 23. Is there anything you can tell us about the Tesseract that we ought to know now? [宾]
                                                                 24.I don't like being handed things. 【宾】
                                                                 25. I gotta say, it's an honour to meet you officially. 【主】
                                                                 26. You know,it's really just a huge honour to have you on board this. [主]
                                                                 27. It was quite the buzz around here, finding you in the ice. 【伴随状】
                                                                 28. Let's vanish. 【宾补】
                                                                 29.Doctor,thank you for coming. 【宾】
                                                                 30.Thanks for asking nicely. 【宾】
                                                                 31.Call every lab you know.Tell them to put the spectrometers on the roof and calibrate them for gamma rays. 【宾补】
                                                                 32. It took me a couple of years to collect them all. 【目的状语】
                                                                 33. You know, the last time I was in Germany, and saw a man standing above everybody else. 【定】
                                                                 34. What, Rock of Ages giving up so easily? 【独立主格——状语】
                                                                  怎么了 觉得摇滚歌手投降的太快了
                                                                 35. I don't remember it being that easy. 【宾补】
                                                                  事情没这么简单
                                                                 36. You might have missed a couple of things doing time as a Capsicle. 【宾,伴随状】
                                                                  你一定错过了不少好东西, 花了那么多时间当冰棍队长
                                                                 37.Do I look to be in a gaming mood? 【look 视为系动词——表】
                                                                 38. I remember you tossing me into an abyss. 【宾补】
                                                                 39. You need the Cube to bring me home. 【宾补】
                                                                 40.Now,I don't know what you plan on doing here. 【宾补】
                                                                 41. You want me to put the hammer down? 【宾补】
                                                                 42. It burns you to have come so close. (主)
                                                                 43.He has an army called the Chitauri. 【定】
                                                                 44.He means to lead them against your people. 【宾】
                                                                 45.Dr Banner is only here to track the Cube. 【目的状语】
```

46.And I would like to know how Loki used it to turn two of the sharpest men I know into his personal flying monkeys. 【宾, 宾补】

1 形式认知: to do, doning, done